LUCK OF THE IRISH OR GRACE OF THE BELIEVER

In my pursuit of understanding the term “Luck of the Irish,” I discovered some amazing differences of opinion as to where the term came from and what it really means. Most have had the understanding that being Irish afforded that person some measure of luck that was not ordinarily available to anyone else. Although if you examine the history of the Irish people, you will discover that they were not inherently lucky.

One view of the term is that, “The term ‘Luck of the Irish’ originated in the USA and means bad luck and not good luck as most people think today. It is an ironic phrase used to describe the sad and tragic history of the people of Ireland. The Irish people are actually very unlucky as they had to leave their homeland in order to survive.” According to Edward T. O’Donnell, an Associate Professor of History at Holy Cross College and author of “1001 Things Everyone Should Know About Irish American History,” the term is not Irish in origin. “During the gold and silver rush years in the second half of the 19th century, a number of the most famous and successful miners were of Irish and Irish American birth....Over time this association of the Irish with mining fortunes led to the expression ‘luck of the Irish.’ Of course, it carried with it a certain tone of derision, as if to say, only by sheer luck, as opposed to brains, could these fools succeed.”

As I processed these historical opinions about the Irish I could not help but to see a similarity in the life of a believer, who like the Irish, will have to leave their current homeland to survive. If we are to live we cannot stay in our homeland of darkness, sin, and self-reliance, but must move to the light, forsake sin, and put our faith in Jesus Christ. Similarly, we like the Irish, once we have foolishly forsaken all to follow Jesus, will cause the on looking world to believe that if we are able to accomplish any success in this world it must be by some foolish luck, because we are not intelligent enough to have wrought it ourselves.

There is a truth in that statement and that is we cannot and did not do it of our own volition. It was surely not by Irish luck or any other but by the grace of our God that we have struck Kingdom gold and inherited eternal life. We all were too foolish to find our way to the Kingdom on our own and had no way to buy our way in. Therefore, by the foolishness of the Gospel, we have found favor and rest for our souls. This grace cannot and will not fail and is available to all no matter how horrible the current homeland. So hold up your cross and not your clover, it is the grace of the believer that is to be sought after. Turn up your Christian white light and not your glass of green ale. Be drunk on the Holy Spirit and not on the bartender’s beer.

“Luck of the Irish” or “Grace of Believer,” you decide what you would prefer. I say, let the winds of March blow in a new desire upon those who are without the grace of God for salvation. Shall they desire grace above luck and the Kingdom of God over this wicked world and shall they surrender to the only One who can change their eternal destiny, Jesus Christ Himself.

Through This Vessel

Thank you dear Lord for all that in this servant's life you do,
For allowing me this great opportunity, this chance to know you.

For precious life itself, all thanks to you, I owe.
Any good thing about me, is only because You have made it so.

You, God are awesome, I know that very well,
You saw me, and saved me and then gave me a story to tell.
Even though the particulars may be seen through my eyes,
It's totally about You, all powerful and knowing, all loving and all wise.

That I live, that I am here, is and must be for Your glory
And only by Your grace, can I begin to tell this great story.
Someone needs to hear about the difference You have made,
About the love that You give and the price that You've paid.

I must tell the story of what You've allowed this vessel to see,
The story You have for others...that You are telling through me.

SUPER BOWL FELLOWSHIP CELEBRATING JUBILEE

Golden Jubilee

Watching these die-heart football fans roll into the fellowship hall for Super Bowl LIII was quite interesting. There was not one member wearing the jersey of either team in the Super Bowl to be found. Of course the Redskins were well represented and then there was a good spattering of Cowboy apparel. There was also a good showing for the Steelers, Eagles and Bears. But alas, no Patriots or Rams could be found. There was clearly a KBC favored team however, the Rams.

Super Bowl LIII could only be enjoyed by defense lovers and Patriot fans. The mood in the fellowship hall was melancholy when the focus was on the game. This mood was a strong indicator of the hopes of those in attendance. There were two times, however, when the mood was upbeat, when the food was served and during half time break when folks were throwing balls across the room. There was a half time game held of throwing footballs through holes in a canvas partition.

This was the first Super Bowl party where our men and women participated jointly. The Women's Enrichment and Men's Ministries teamed up to put on this year's event. They helped keep some enthusiasm going with the games and give-a-ways they held during the game. The game enjoyed by most was a timed game where you had to write the names of the 32 NFL teams based on their logo. It was amazing how challenging it was, even for those following the NFL since the NFL/AFL days, to just run through the logos quickly.

Just a couple of notes on the game; this was the Patriots sixth win in a Super Bowl that was historically boring not just because it was another win for the Pats in their 13-3 victory over the Rams, with the lowest scoring game in Super Bowl history. It bottomed out below 21 total points of the Dolphins over the Redskins, 14-7. Additionally, the 3-3 score after three quarters was the lowest in Super bowl history. It was the first time in 53 games that a touchdown was not scored through the first 53 minutes of the game.

As everyone filed out of the fellowship hall there were smiles on most faces. Why you say? They enjoyed hanging out and fellowshiping with their KBC family; it didn't matter who won the game. These folks just enjoyed being together, which is always a result in this House of the Lord.
